

said he does enjoy having the extra 15% power on demand from time.

The gyro can climb at around 1300 to 1400 feet per minute with just the pilot and has an 80 litre fuel tank with a range of approximately 4 hours with reserve, cruising at around 90 to 95 mph.

ZK-FKR Fokker D-VII Replica

A NEW Fokker D-VII 80% scale replica aircraft has recently been completed in Ashburton and is ready for its first test flight. Two material kits were imported by Graham Ritchie of Ashburton and Greg Burt of Queenstown and FKR will be the first of its type for New Zealand.

Produced by Airdrome Airplanes from Missouri, USA, the kit uses all aluminium tubing throughout construction and includes all the machined parts for control systems plus AN hardware, wheels, plans and a builders' video. The two aircraft have been built side by side, Graham building his and Paddy McDonnell building Greg's with Paddy completing the ceconite fabric work on both aircraft.

Greg's aircraft is powered by a 2180cc VW engine with a Valley Engineering reduction drive and a Culver 84x50 wooden propeller. It has a striking colour scheme with red wings and red/white fuselage and tail, with a very interesting piece of art on the fuselage sides.
