ZK-VNM DH112 Venom

A DH112 Venom has recently taken to the air for the first time in New Zealand. For John Luff of Wanganui Sea and Air Charters (2006) Ltd., this was a very special time as his original Venom with the same registration was damaged on arriving at the Masterton airfield to take part in the Wings over Wairarapa airshow in January 2011. Damage was significant enough that it was deemed beyond repair and written off.

John with the help of Gerry Gaston, an engineer with past RNZAF Vampire experience, went on a search for a replacement Venom and in February of this year the new ZK-VNM arrived in New Zealand from Switzerland. The aircraft was complete when it was in Switzerland but hadn't flown for several months. Once in New Zealand the Venom undertook a refurbishment which John says couldn't have been achieved without the help of Grant Biel and his team at Rural Aviation.

No 14 Squadron RNZAF leased Venoms from the RAF and flew them out of Tengah, Singapore in anger against insurgents during the Malayan Emergency, between 1955 and 1958. Trevor Bland, New Zealand Warbirds Association founding president and patron, flew Venoms in Singapore with 14 Squadron and remembers it as a "potent warplane due to its capacity to carry a couple of thousand-pound bombs, rockets and cannon". The colour scheme on VNM is based on the original Venom scheme that Trevor Bland flew while serving.

Around 1400 Venoms were built and it was developed into a night fighter and a naval version, the Sea Venom. The Swiss operated their Venoms until 1983.

ZK-VNM will soon be flown to its home base at Ohakea in readiness for some airshow appearances.

ZK-IOA Robinson R66

A SECOND R66 for Outgro Aviation of Dannevirke has been supplied by HeliFlite Pacific. Outgro describe the R66 as a stand out machine for their range of work due to its increased performance, payload and exceptional fuel consumption. Outgro, who specialise in the application of fluidised fertiliser and other aerial operation including lifting work, designed and built the spray gear for the R66.

The Robinson R66 Turbine retains many of the design features of the R44, including a two-bladed rotor system, T-bar cyclic, and an open interior cabin configuration. Notable differences are the R66's increased reserve power, improved altitude performance, fifth seat, and large baggage compartment. Operations Manager for Outgro Aviation, Brian Knight said they now have two R66 aircraft in operation around New Zealand and have flown over 800 hours to date between the two. ## ZK-MSP Morane Saulnier

FIRST of its type in New Zealand is another aircraft from the Airdrome Aeroplane Company of Holden USA, this time it is a Morane which is a three quarter scale of the French 1914 Morane Saulnier Parasol Type L. The Type L became one of the first successful fighter aircraft when it was fitted with a single machine gun that fired through the arc of the propeller, which was protected by armoured deflector wedges. Its immediate effectiveness in this role launched an arms race in fighter development, and the Type L was swiftly rendered obsolete. The original Type L used wing warping for lateral control, but a later version designated Type LA was fitted with ailerons.

As this is the first aircraft that Frank Price has built he was looking for something that looked good and would be relatively easy to construct. So construction started in his single car shed about four years ago after he imported a kit which contained all the materials required for the airframe and coverings and plans. The engine is a Valley Engineering 'Big Twin'. This is 990cc V twin four stroke (40hp) that was supplied as a package with a PSRU and Culver propeller. Although heavier than a two stroke of similar power, it does sound more in keeping for an aircraft of this type. The completed aircraft weighs about 350 lb empty and as such is a Class 1 microlight.

The aircraft is now complete and nearer to Christmas time Frank will be transporting it down to Te Kowhai airfield for its first flight.

ZK-MVA ATR 72-212A

AIR New Zealand's first new-generation ATR 72-600 aircraft has been handed over in Toulouse, France recently, decked out in airline's famous 'all black' livery.

The aircraft is the first of its kind for Air New Zealand which has a total of seven on order with options to purchase a further five for a total list price of US$270 million. The ATR 72-600 order potentially doubles the size of Air New Zealand's ATR fleet and is expected to put two million additional regional seats into the market.

The first ATR 72-600 aircraft will enter Air New Zealand subsidiary Mount Cook's fleet in mid-November. Mount Cook General Manager Sarah Williamson says the new ATRs will allow the airline to further expand its domestic operations with increased frequency, extra capacity and to service new ports. This first aircraft will service Nelson and New Plymouth in addition to the ports where the ATR 72-500 currently flies.

ZK-FEB FE2b-1, ZK-PPD Sopwith Pup, ZK-RES RE.8 and ZK-TVE D.Va Albatros

FOUR new aircraft have been registered for The Vintage Aviator Ltd. of Masterton and all were seen at the recent Vintage Aviator Remembrance Day Airshow.

Completed over the winter months were the TVA D.Va Albatros ZK-TVE, marked up in the colours of the Royal Prussian Jasta 5 fighter ace Fritz Rumey, TVA RE.8
